

5TH ARMY REPULSES NAZI COUNTER-ATTACK

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

PECULIAR interest attaches to Foreign Secretary Eden's reaffirmation of the British policy of not recognizing wartime changes in the map of Europe—unless they take place with the free consent and goodwill of the parties concerned.

The raison d'être of this statement, is the Russo-Polish dispute over the territory occupied by the Soviet in 1939 at the time of the German invasion. Mr. Eden was replying in the house of commons to a question by a member. From his experience in reporting the proceedings of the house I know that questions sometimes are spontaneous and sometimes are inspired by the government in order to give it a chance to use commons as a sounding board to reach a wide audience.

In any event, when you weigh all the elements of this situation it's easy to believe that the foreign secretary seized this opportunity to emphasize something even bigger than the Polish imbroglio. It struck me that he may have made his main point when he said:

"His majesty's government of course stands on the principles enunciated in the Atlantic charter." So, if I'm on the right track, he was concerned not only with the Polish trouble but with reaffirmation of the Atlantic charter. And why should it seem expedient to reaffirm the charter?

Well, as this column has explained numerous times, many countries—especially in the Orient—have been suffering doubts and are anxious for assurances that this document, which was drawn up by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill and has become the credo of the United Nations, means what it says. I discovered this during a tour of the war theaters a year ago.

One of the eight points laid down in the Atlantic charter declares that "they (Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill) desire to see no territorial changes that do not accord with the freely expressed wishes of the peoples concerned." What is more natural than that the world should wonder whether this applies to the Polish affair and, if it does, just how it will be implemented.

THERE ARE a lot of angles to this question. For instance, who are the "peoples concerned"? Are the inhabitants of pre-war eastern Poland to decide whether they want to be incorporated in Russia or Poland, or is the Polish government in exile to determine this point?

It is, of course, the anxious hope of the United States and Britain

Nation Seeks To Protect Merchant Fleet From German Subs

(By Associated Press)
BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 27.—The Argentine military government froze movements of the state merchant fleet today as one of the first follow-up actions to its diplomatic break with the Axis, all vessels being directed to remain in port "until new orders."

It was expected, however, the tieup would not last long, since Argentine economy largely depends on movement of the merchant fleet. (Although no reason was given for the order, it seemed apparent the Ramirez government deemed it unwise to expose vessels to the menace of any lurking enemy submarine until some provision could be made for their protection.)

Nazi submarine sank three Argentine ships in 1942 but no mention was made of this in yesterday's official announcements of the diplomatic break.)

As congratulations poured in, the Argentine government turned to the question of communications with Germany.

Suspension of these facilities loomed as great importance in view of the revelation Buenos Aires was headquarters for a giant espionage ring. It is believed telephone communications with Germany already have been cut.

The German news agency Transocean has been notified to wind up its affairs here by Jan. 31 and it was believed the newspaper Pampero, served by Transocean and often said to be maintained by the German embassy, might close at the same time.

One question expected to be settled quickly is who will handle Argentine interests in Germany and Japan. The newspaper Noticias

Sixty Years In Present Site Is Grocery's Record

When remodeling work is started soon to change the building at the northwest corner of W. State st. and N. Howard ave. into a church structure for the Lighthouse Tabernacle, it will mark the end of a grocery business which has continued at that site for nearly 60 years.

John W. Lease is closing out his grocery business because the Tabernacle building from his son, J. Whinery Lease, wants to occupy the building as soon as possible.

Lease, veteran Salem grocer, has conducted his business at this location for the last few years. For half a century the business was conducted by Lin. Tomlinson, who retired a few years ago. Tomlinson started the business at that corner, later building the present structure.

Overseas Expansion Plans Revealed by Stimson; To Close Some Camps

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—As present plans shape up, two-thirds of America's steadily growing army will be at overseas stations by the end of this year.

That was the word today from War Secretary Stimson as he announced plans for closing a number of domestic army camps during the next few months and the transfer to combat units of a substantial proportion of the soldiers now assigned to administrative duties.

The overseas expansion program will double our forces abroad. As of the end of 1943 only about a third of the army had been sent outside the country.

In addition, a number of officers over 38, particularly those commissioned directly from civil life or in the National guard and Reserve corps, will be placed on the inactive list because "no suitable assignments are available or in prospect either at domestic or overseas installations or establishments."

"The readjustments were dictated generally by the progressive shift of Army operations from the defensive to the offensive and by the growth of air power," said Stimson.

Training Peak Reached

With the peak of the training program past, the Army already has placed a number of facilities on a stand-by basis, or announced its intention to do so. The air forces have relinquished 69 or more establishments, and the ground forces have begun to close up some training camps and other facilities, including Camp Atterbury, Ind., Pine Camp, N. Y., and the induction center at Fort Hayes, O.

Stimson asserted "the Army will no longer need all its present troop housing facilities and it will be necessary to place a number of camps, posts, stations and other installations on a caretaker basis, and to return many of the civilian installations and facilities which previously had been taken over by the Army."

He announced the War department has ordered physically qualified men in all branches of the Army who have a total of more than 12 months service at fixed stations or "overhead activities" in the United States to be reassigned to combat units "or mobile activities ultimately destined for overseas service."

DEPUTY TREASURER HELD IN SHORTAGE

Akron Official Is Charged With $182,000 Embezzlement of Funds

AKRON, Jan. 27.—Wilbur C. Wohlwend, 49-year-old deputy Summit county treasurer charged with embezzling $182,000 in public funds, offered today to help state examiners complete an audit of records containing a shortage that led to his arrest.

The county officials pleaded innocent when arraigned yesterday before Municipal Judge Abner D. Zook and was bound over to the county grand jury under $7,500 bond.

County Treasurer C. A. Frank signed the affidavit for his deputy's arrest and Prosecutor Alva J. Russell reported Wohlwend in an oral confession said the embezzlements extended over a period of six or seven years.

The arrest came as six examiners under State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson's supervision scanned the treasurer's records.

Defense Counsel George Hargreaves told Judge Zook his client "is cooperating in every way with the auditors to get this matter cleared up. An embezzlement conviction carries a possible one to 10 year penitentiary sentence."

Mullins Using Brass for Projectiles, Shell Cases

Mullins Manufacturing Corp. plants in Salem and Warren have been manufacturing artillery projectiles and shell cases out of brass since last October. It is announced by the Army ordnance department in New York.

The department's announcement says shell case manufacturers have been using steel and recently converted to the more easily obtainable brass.

Mullins officials say they were notified to make the change last October and to use up steel stores by the first of the year. Steel, officials say, still is the hardest material to get and there is a large brass supply.

Ordnance Plans Contemplate No Early End Of Conflict

Ordnance production plans contemplate no early end to present hostilities on the various world battlefronts, Col. H. M. Reedall, Cleveland district ordnance chief, declared today in reporting war material manufactured last year in the 58 county region was valued at $2,000,000,000.

In his annual review, Col. Reedall said arms, ammunition and vehicles for American forces comprised the principal share of the ordnance, but that considerable quantities of material also were transported to 17 Allied countries under lend-lease.

The review noted that $1,012,515,000 of the total amount was disbursed to prime contractors in 55 northern Ohio counties and three counties of western Pennsylvania.

Automotive equipment produced as ordnance included 195,687 vehicles, 400,000 engines and transmissions, 3,864 tanks and tank hulls, 100,000 bullet sealing gas tanks and 2,500,000 tires.

Listed under ammunition production were 69,000,000 cartridge cases, 28,000,000 shells, 50,000,000 fuses and primers, 5,000,000 shot and 750,000 serial bombs.

Production Shown

Included in artillery and small arms production were 129,526 gun tube forgings, and similar armament, 14,980 cartridges, 7,086,842 carbines, bayonets, machine gun mounts and ammunition boxes, 471,000 fire control pieces, including binoculars, telescopes and synchronous motors.

As lend-lease, district war industries produced 2,751 machines including lathes, screw machines, grinders, milling machines, boring mills, cutting tools, lugs and similar tools and spare parts.

The Army ordnance officer praised industrial engineering accomplishments in the 58 counties and pointed to "savings of more than 11,000 tons of steel and over $3,000,000 during 1943."

"Major battles still to be fought mean that our soldiers must be provided with material and equipment of the types and in the quantities that will help gain the eventual victory."

It is not only dangerous but extremely unwise to assume the war will end soon. Ordnance production plans contemplate no early end to hostilities.

Bombers Sink, Damage 14 More Enemy Vessels In Far Pacific

(By Associated Press)
American bombers have sunk or damaged 14 Japanese ships, ranging from a minesweeper to a big freighter, in new assaults on the enemy's long supply line to its Pacific war bases, Allied reports said today.

Ten vessels were hit by Navy and Marine fliers in the third and heaviest blow this month at shipping in the port of Rabaul, Pivotal Japanese base in the Southwest Pacific. The Japanese lost 24 to 28 planes in an unsuccessful defense of their vulnerable New Britain harbor.

A small freighter was destroyed in another Allied raid on the Admiralty islands, northwest of Rabaul. In the far east, 14th U. S. Air Force Mitchell bombers sank two 1,900-ton freighters and a minesweeper off the East China coast.

The latest strike at Rabaul brought the enemy's cost of maintaining that base to at least 26 ships sunk or damaged and more than 350 planes destroyed during January.

Destroy Cargo Vessels

First reports from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters on the raid last Monday listed five cargo vessels and a tanker sunk and two cargo ships and a tanker beached.

Dispatches from New Georgia in the Solomonis, site of the raiders' bases, said, however, Navy torpedo bombers alone had sunk or badly damaged five cargo ships at Rabaul's Simpson harbor, including one vessel described as 8,000 to 10,000 tons.

EDITORS MUST KEEP SOME NEWS SECRET

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—The advisory board to the press division of the censorship office has advised the nation's editors, "with the military situation in Europe approaching the critical stage," the closest possible watch must be kept over disclosure of even the slightest of military secrets.

"It becomes imperative," the board's statement continued, "to give not casual but most earnest and ever-present consideration to the censorship code to which newspapers have subscribed."

GERMANS FAIL TO DISLODGE ALLIED UNITS

Montgomery reports Fierce Engagement South of Italian Capital

BY EDWARD KENNEDY
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Jan. 27.—The first German counter-attack against the Americans and British just south of Rome, the first of the many that probably will be launched in a furious effort to wipe out the Allied beachhead, has been thrown back with the crushing of German armor, Allied headquarters announced today.

Men and supplies continued to pile into the strategic wedge threatening the Italian capital. Gen. Sir Harold Alexander's central Mediterranean headquarters announced elements of the Hermann Goering armored division had been met southwest of Littoria, chief town of Mussolini's famous Pontine marsh agricultural development, in a "fierce local engagement."

The Germans left 120 dead on the field as they were tossed back. The Hermann Goering division, formerly an armored Grenadier outfit, has been strengthened by new equipment to a fully armored unit. It was last encountered on the main Fifth army front. Its appearance on the beachhead front indicated it had been shifted to counter the threat to the German rear.

Advance Over Obstacles
Other Americans of the Fifth army, 48 miles east of Littoria, continuing to uproot Germans, mines and meshed defenses, struggled slowly forward across flooded streams and over steep crafts just north of Cassino where field dispatches said they were within half a mile of the Liri valley gateway and were over-looking the bomb-jammed ruins of the ancient monastery town. Patrols had penetrated outskirts of the stronghold.

Some four miles farther north the French rushed down from their mountain positions on Mt. Il Lago in the Sant' Elia area, across the Secco river and the Cassino-Atina road and attacked the Germans on the slopes of Mt. Belvedere.

Bad weather limited air operations, but light bombers attacked road and rail objectives at Ceccano, Cisterna and Tiri.

The bombing of Cisterna, on the Appian way 16 miles northeast of the Anzio beachhead, suggested the Allied assault forces have not yet reached this important highway at that point, although they may have gained it nearer Rome.

The Osborne company was given an initial contract by OPA for 900 million ration coupons at $1.44 per thousand, or $1,296,000, Busbey said, adding after the contract was let the OPA decided it needed "not 900 million ration tokens, but two billion of them."

WASTE PAPER FOR WAR

"Only a scrap of paper!"

If everybody hasn't said it, everybody has thought it at one time or another in the past. But the war has changed all that and, as Edwin S. Friendly, national chairman of the Victory Waste Paper campaign, has said, "It is little less than sabotage at this time to say or think—only a scrap of paper."

The American people must contribute 33 per cent more waste paper this year than they did last year if the requirements of our military forces and our essential civilian demands are to be met. Demand for waste paper for essential military use grows in proportion to the progress of the war. These military demands come at a time when paper production is down because of a shortage of its most essential ingredient, pulpwood. This supply is limited because of the shortage of lumberjacks to cut the timber. Waste paper must substitute during the war for much of the pulpwood used in the manufacture of paper and paper products.

Some 700,000 manufactured items, from military tanks to pins and needles, are shipped overseas to the fighting front in paper. Natural enemies to military supplies encountered enroute comprise salt spray, rain, moisture, tropical heat, freezing temperatures. Paper repels them all. Spare parts for artillery, rifles, motors, vehicles and machinery—all of the complicated and varied gear of mechanized warfare—are shipped in paper.

When waste paper is collected by school children in the city-wide canvass starting today, three things will be necessary to make it a success. First, householders must realize that this trivial contribution is of real importance to the war effort. Secondly, they must be willing to go to a little trouble by tying up magazines, newspapers and other papers for salvage. Third, the canvass must be organized on a systematic, house to house basis, with definite territories assigned, so all available waste paper will be collected. And if a home is then missed, the housewife will be doing her patriotic duty only if she notifies the nearest school.

Some plan to collect waste paper from the business district also should be put into effect. Waste paper is such a vital military need at this moment that nothing should be overlooked in the collection effort.

REP. CARLSON'S COMEBACK

There is a measure of grim justice in the fact that Rep. Frank Carlson, Kansas Republican, has introduced a bill to simplify individual income tax returns. Rep. Carlson was sponsor in the house of the proposal to simplify the income tax process by the original Ruml plan.

His aim then was current payment of taxes. His bill provided for starting current payments on March 15, 1943, with no hangover complications. Later, he and his backers made certain concessions to satisfy legitimate objections concerning "windfalls," but their idea continued to be the simplification of returns and collection.

In the end, nothing was left of their proposal, except the collection plan. A Democratic bloc in congress, inspired by the treasury and embittered by the fact the minority party had taken the initiative in tax reform, succeeded in bulling through perhaps the most confusing tax law on record. The result will be a national headache until order is brought out of chaos.

Rep. Carlson's new proposal follows the logical line of eliminating returns for all persons whose liability is substantially withheld at the source, with returns permitted at the taxpayers' option. The latter privilege would take care of taxpayers with special claims for exemptions.

It is based on the sound principle that Americans do not object to their money being taxed when the cause is worthy, but do object and always will object to needless taxation of their patience. Better luck this time, Rep. Carlson.

FOREIGN POLICY BY THE PEOPLE

This government's refusal to recognize Bolivia's current government on the ground that it is linked with a plot to undermine the Allied war effort in the western hemisphere carries the further explanation that the government does not truly represent the people of Bolivia. In the case of countries like Bolivia, this is a ticklish matter.

In 1938, Bolivia's population was estimated at about three and a half million. More than half its inhabitants are Indians speaking only their own dialects. The country's political decisions—and most important decisions—are made by the white population, numbering about 250,000. These are descended in great part from the early Spanish settlers.

There is perhaps no concept nobler than that of foreign policy reflecting the views of the people, but it may be doubted that the republican theory of political determination cuts any ice in Bolivia. Bolivians may be in sympathy with the United States and the good neighbor policy, or with Germany and the bad neighbor policy, but most of them are too busy with their immediate problems to be concerned about either.

INITIATIVE IN ITALY

By seizing the initiative again in the hard battle of the Mediterranean, United States and British troops have challenged the utmost military resources of Germany in Italy.

It remains to be seen how those resources may be used; the new landings behind the Germans refiguring below Rome are a daring maneuver. Here and in Great Britain, there are prayers for their success, because success would hasten the climax of the war and reduce its toll.

While waiting, both nations take great comfort in fresh evidence that their combined staff work again has caught the Germans by surprise. Again, the German military has suffered in prestige, a circumstance which may be followed at home by important repercussions.

OPEN TO QUESTION

A poll of house military affairs committeemen showing a majority doubting the wisdom of continuing the army and navy student training programs is not an unexpected development. The wisdom of trying to train older men and of drafting fathers while approximately 200,000 better qualified citizens remained in classrooms has been wide open to question.

In view of the training program's close connection with the welfare of colleges and universities, its final disposition will have to be determined with an eye to their problems. But it cannot be argued reasonably that the training program is not subject to revision in the light of new circumstances.

Dr. Clendingen will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

ily, the weakest, physically and mentally, the scrapings of the pot.

Modern nutrition has made a revision in these age-old ideas. Dr. Harold Beck, of Boston, has made a statistical study which proves that the youngest child has just as good teeth as the others provided the mother gets a good prenatal diet with plenty of calcium.

He studied 198 five year old children, 106 being first born and 92 fourth born. The difference in the number of decayed teeth was negligible, a difference of less than two decayed teeth was found between the first born and later born children.

Through an adequate diet the mother can furnish a sufficient calcium reserve to carry the infant through the first 10-month, or shock period of life.

Mothers Drink Milk

Dr. Beck found that 64 per cent of the mothers of children having good teeth drank three or four glasses of milk daily during the expectant period. Milk furnishes the calcium reserve mentioned above.

Furthermore poor calcification of teeth results from lack of Vitamin D; children with healthy teeth were also found to have been fed cod liver oil, the most convenient and cheapest medium in which to give Vitamin D, regularly during the first year and up to the fifth year of life.

That these precautions are necessary is shown by studies of the selective service men, impaired and missing teeth being the leading reason for rejection. And the age of these applicants indicates that the defects began in early life. According to the statistical bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., defects occur in children's teeth at the rate of 1 1/3 tooth services per child per year.

The results are that 95 per cent of American youths reaching the age of 15 have already experienced decay to some extent in their permanent teeth.

Averages of Missing Teeth

In a group of employees 17 to 19 years of age there was an average of 1.9 teeth missing among the girls and 1.6 among the boys. By the time a group has reached the 25 to 29 year period the figures are twice as high, the females always having more missing teeth by a small margin.

This is simply the result of neglect, exaggerated fear of the dentist, reluctance to spend money on teeth, and ignorance. First ignorance of the serious disability that goes with imperfect dental arches.

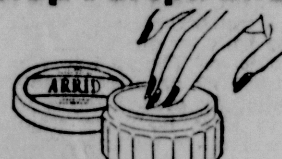

One specific example of ignorance which I have repeatedly mentioned is neglect of the first permanent tooth, the first lower molar. It comes in last in the row behind the baby teeth, at about the age of six. Parents are apt to think it is another baby tooth. It is very apt to decay, and should be tended to immediately. Its loss imperils the whole arch.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

R. N.: Is it important for a girl 13 to wear stockings in cold weather? She says if she wore them the other children would make so much fun of her.

Answer: I confess that this is one of the habits of the younger generation that I do not understand. It gives me a chill to see them. I should think sheer discomfort, to say nothing of the danger of chills-blains and livedo, would drive them to cover their skin. Perhaps the way to handle it would be to tell her that, going without stockings will make her legs so ugly she will never get a husband.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. — The Treasury probably will suggest next spring that Congress begin work on the simplification of tax forms but the "joker" in the request is expected to be a demand for another whopping revenue bill.

Even as the pending measure was about on its way to the White House, department officials pointed significantly to President Roosevelt's recent notation of a need for more taxes. The Treasury disagrees strongly with both the senate and the house about the potential yield of the measure now designed to produce $2,275,000,000 and the Treasury's new demands are expected to approximate its recent bid for $10,500,000,000.

BARUCH BID

Bernard Baruch, President Wilson's economic advisor and head of the World War I War Industries board, will be asked to head the staff of the new house economic policy and planning committee. Said Chairman Colmer (D-Miss): "I know of no man better fitted for the job." The committee was set up yesterday to get the country back on peacetime basis when the time comes.

SERVICE VOTE

Administration senators are seeking quick action on a federal service ballot to offset a possible weekend delay. At least 15 members are scheduled to leave the Capitol after today's session. With that number gone, failure to get a vote today probably would delay final action until next week.

THE LITTLE DOG BARKED

by ANNE ROWE

CHAPTER EIGHT

It also had a bed, very wide and not quite so hard as the chairs. And so we dropped down on its edge side by side—Stray jumped up and made himself comfortable, too. I gave Linda a detailed account of the situation, summing it up with an enumeration of all our enemies.

"The whole bunch of stockholders—Ames, Alden, George Vickery, Roy Parris, Burns Loring and the Kilborns—plus what actors they've managed to bribe or browbeat. And I'm afraid—our dear director, Tom Linwood, also." I ticked off the list, and then turned to my companion and asked: "Nice line, isn't it?"

To my surprise Linda Barolle went chalk white, was staring at me with the strangest expression—horror is the only word to describe it.

"It's awful—ghastly! Uncle Ty didn't have known! I'd never forgive him if I thought—" she gasped.

I hadn't looked for quite such a disturbing reaction. After all, the plot was directed against my play, and only indirectly touched the unknown young actress McVane was launching in it.

"Oh, come now. Don't be vindictive about it!" I advised her ironically. "It isn't a personal insult to me."

She looked as if I'd slapped her. The blood rushed up into her face, and she began to laugh—shakily.

"That's right. I'm acting like a ninny," she apologized. "I didn't really mean what I said about Uncle Ty. And I think you are wonderful, getting the best of that hateful Kilborn woman. Thanks ever so much for including me in your deal. I'll write you a check for my part of the rent right away."

I wasn't certain she meant it. Very young actresses aren't usually willing, and able, to pay ten dollars a night for their rooms. So I shrugged and said: "I don't see why you should. I'll fix it with Mr. McVane. By the way, have you an idea where we can reach him?"

The simple question set her off again.

"No, I haven't," she said. "He told me he'd be away this week. And I was so stupid, I thought nothing of it! Believe me, if I'd had an inkling of—" She stopped and laughed briefly. "There I go again! Please don't be angry. I know it's a poor way to repay your kindness."

From my "kindness" it was only a step to my play. According to Linda it was "divine" and her part in it the "opportunity of a lifetime."

Soon we were deep in an analysis of my heroine: a small-town college professor's daughter who marries a newly famous playwright, to find out she was only a means of getting rid of a married woman who has been pursuing him—successfully, for a time.

Linda acted out some of her scenes for me, and her grasp of the character, her clever shadings from naive trust to fighting defiance, small-town simplicity to metropolitan sophistication, were so astoundingly right, they dissolved all my misgivings about the possible outrages planned by my local ill-wishers.

If the leading man—Orne Paulsen—was half as good as Linda, and the actress who played the cast-off sweetheart not a complete washout, no amount of "sabotage" could hurt Against All Comers.

We were so absorbed in our impromptu rehearsal, before we knew it, it was time to dress. The theater started early, at seven-twenty, and was out at ten, to accommodate a distant patron. Ada had impressed on Linda that Fern Cove first nights were gala events—and presently we found ourselves wading through the ferns in high-heeled slippers and carefully lifted long skirts, Linda charming in dusty pink pique, I wearing my pet light gray dinner suit, and Stray prancing around us happily. Our only avowed worry was what to do with Stray during dinner and while we were in the theater.

The last-named worry proved unnecessary. When we approached the inn, in three sharp yelps that said clearly, "So long," Stray trotted around the el toward the kitchen entrance.

From then on everything was serene. So much so, the earlier events of the day seemed unreal, something that couldn't have happened.

My two-hundred-eighty-dollar gesture had produced results. In spite of a crowd waiting in the lobby we were ushered immediately to a table by the headwaiter himself, and served a superlative meal: Marvelous lobster, delicious native lamb accompanied by huge, meltingly tender peas, raspberry shortcake drowned in thick cream, and perfect coffee. Really, Maine cooking was so heavenly, even my dislike of Josie Kilborn paled under its soothing influence and I actually smiled at her when I passed her in the lobby, on my way out.

It was still a good twenty minutes before curtain time, and so Linda and I strolled about, taking in the sights. They were worth seeing. Ada had been right. A Fern Cove opening was something.

The evening was warm. Much too warm for Maine, I discovered later. And the prospective audience that filled the large open square between the inn and the theater was taking full advantage of the pleasant temperature.

Most of them were in evening dress—people from the fashionable resorts up and down the coast—and almost all the women had shed their wraps, displaying their smart gowns and, in some cases, a great deal of themselves. Also, there was a liberal sprinkling of uniforms, both army and navy; officers and their ladies, from near-by camps and army yards.

It all made a colorful picture, constantly augmented and changed by the stream of new arrivals flowing from the solidly packed parking lot. There seemed to be thousands of people, even if there only could be about eleven hundred—the seating capacity of the theater.

I was looking for Linwood, without much hope of finding him or anyone in the churning crowd, when someone spoke my name, and Linda's, and Orne Paulsen loomed beside me, very elegant in a white dinner jacket.

The young actor was the typical Hollywood idol. So much so, it was a miracle he was still available for Broadway leads, especially as his acting record was excellent.

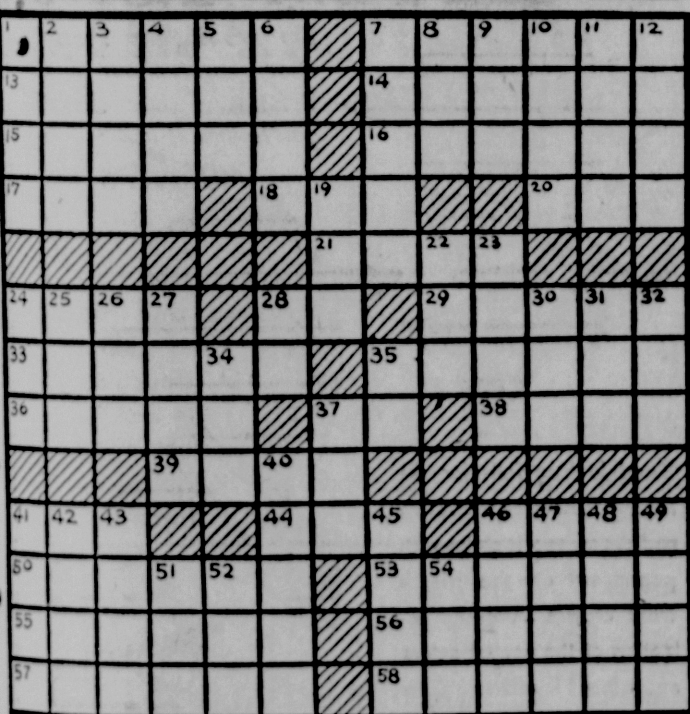

In his late twenties, broad-shouldered and narrow-waisted, with a well-shaped head, regular features, expressive gray eyes and dark, meticulously smoothed hair that had, nevertheless, a tendency to curl up at the ends, he was all an actor could possibly desire—visually—in a leading man. The only thing that didn't fit him was his name. His appearance suggested in no way the Scandinavian origin Orne Paulsen implied.

He greeted us with a fervent: "At last! Where have you two been hiding? Even the desk clerk didn't know your whereabouts!"

"He knew, all right," I assured him. "He just acted that way, on orders. Something's up, Mr. Paulsen. Let me give you a quick outline." And then I told him, as concisely and clearly as I could, what had happened during the day.

Rationing Notes For Consumer, Merchant

Consumers of fuel oil are warned by the OPA that they are using their oil rations too fast and unless the trend is halted, householders will not have enough fuel to last through the season. It is imperative, officials declare, that the consumer plan the oil consumption to conserve his ration to carry him through the remainder of the winter. Fuel oil stocks are still very short, and there is none available, they say, for the consumer who uses his ration up too soon through carelessness.

War Production board planning for greatly increased production of low cost children's clothing, completed before the end of the year, is expected to be apparent in retail stores by the last of the month, an OPA announcement indicated today.

Ohio Soldiers Home Endangered by Fire

(By Associated Press)
SANDUSKY, Jan. 27.—Fire of undetermined origin early today destroyed a power plant and damaged two other buildings at the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors home here, causing damages estimated at $25,000 and plunging the institution into darkness for several hours.

One death was attributed indirectly to the fire, when George White, 52, of Cleveland, a resident of the home, died of a heart attack while assisting firemen. Corner E. C. Wiegand said excitement induced the fatal attack.

Starting shortly before midnight in the power plant, 40 feet from a dormitory housing veterans, the blaze destroyed the building and engines and generators which supplied power and light for the 26 buildings. Flames spread to a nearby laundry and a building being readied for a new power plant, and both were partially destroyed.

State May Buy New Fairgrounds Site

COLUMBUS, Jan. 27.—Purchase of a tract of 800 to 1,000 acres of land near here for a new state fairgrounds is advocated by State Agriculture Director John T. Brown.

Recalling that it was almost impossible to expand the present state fairgrounds site, now used by the Army Air Service command, Brown said a site should be obtained soon and plans begun for resumption of state fairs as soon as the war is ended.

The Air Service command leased the 150-acre fairgrounds here as a storage depot and will retain control one year after hostilities end.

Brown indicated either the government of private interests might consider purchasing the present grounds for considerably more than enough to buy a better site five or six miles from Columbus, which would have ample room for expansion.

He said he had been approached by interests from nearby Grove City, where the Beulah park race track is located, to acquire ground there.

However he said a committee should be appointed to select the most suitable site, and indicated he would ask Gov. John W. Bricker to request legislative approval for the undertaking.

Canton Girl Wins National Attention In War Bond Talks

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Treasury Secretary Morgenthau thinks 18-year-old Aurelia Christea of Canton, O., can bring tears to Americans' eyes and—most important—make them spend and spend for War bonds.

That's why she's here for auditions preparatory to making radio appeals for War bonds.

The daughter of Rumanian-born and naturalized parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vasile Christea, she appeared with Morgenthau at a Cincinnati Bond rally last week and amazed the secretary.

His confidential assistant, Fred Smith, reported he read her Cincinnati speech four times and "couldn't find anything in it that would make people cry—but they did just the same."

Miss Christea, a freshman at Bowling Green state university at Bowling Green, O., said she began selling bonds a year ago because she had no brothers to represent the family in the armed forces. She is an only child. Her father is a steel worker.

Aurelia gave her parents full credit for her accomplishments. "Not only my speech attainments but my school record and activities are directly traceable to my parents' constant encouragement and example, and their deep interest in current events and world affairs," she said.

Vasile and Gavil Christea, father and mother of the bond-sales girl, were born in Rumania of neighboring families, and were married after coming to Canton about 25 years ago. One of Aurelia's grandparents is still in Rumania, and the family has received no word from him since that country entered the war.

Aurelia won a state oratorical championship in 1942, and the following year was the first girl to win the state Prince of Peace award.

mated at 1,400,000,000 pounds, while the January total was approximately 1,600,000,000 pounds.

Of the amount available for next month, pork constitutes about half the total, at around 750,000,000 pounds, the agency said.

"I want to stress the point," said Price Administrator Chester Bowles, "that we are making sure that there are enough ration points to buy up all the meat available to civilians in February."

"We would rather take the chance of having too many ration points in the hands of housewives, which may cause possible local shortages of some kinds of meat, than to have any waste because of insufficient points."

Pork loin cuts—such as roasts, center and end chops and tenderloins—were raised a point, OPA explained, because these choice items are becoming relatively scarce in some parts of the country.

Excessive "consumer demand caused the hike of cheese values, OPA said.

Enlisted men under 30 will be reassigned first according to their length of service in the United States, and they will be followed by those over 30, in order of age—youngest first. These reassignment orders will not apply to men who have served overseas at some time since Pearl Harbor, or to men with highly specialized skills which cannot be utilized overseas.

"Replacements for reassigned enlisted men," said Stimson, "when necessary, will be made first from civilians, next by Women's Army Corps personnel, then, in order, by men permanently disqualified for overseas service, men who have served overseas, recently inducted men with physical handicaps, enlisted men with less than 12 months service in fixed installations in the United States."

As to the officers over 38, Stimson said "there are many" for whom suitable assignments cannot be found, and that "Army commanders have been notified that the retention of such officers on active duty is no longer necessary or desirable in the public interest. Therefore, if they cannot be reassigned they must be recommended for relief from active duty. Final decision in each case will be made by the War department."

1,600 Employees of State Hospitals Given Raises

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Jan. 27.—Pay increases for about 1,600 low-salaried employees of 12 state hospitals were announced today by Welfare Director Herbert R. Mooney, who expressed hope the new schedule would enable mental institutions to fill approximately 400 worker vacancies.

Mooney said after Feb. 1 both men and women would be paid the same scale ranging from $60 to $75 a month with complete maintenance. In addition, ward attendants may receive $5 a month above the maximum.

The current scale ranges from $57 to $72 a month for men and $51 to $62.50 for women. Increases under the new schedule may range from $3 for men to $12.50 for women. Mooney estimated increases for women might average $10 to $11 a month.

State hospitals affected by the increases include those at Athens, Massillon, the hospital for epileptics at Gallipolis, and then feeble-minded hospitals at Columbus, Orient and Apple Creek.

Argentinian Bid For Lend-Lease Aid Is Expected

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Argentina's new position in relation to the rest of the Americas probably will be clarified when and if she again applies for lend-lease arms and supplies.

A request for such aid is expected as soon as Buenos Aires has completed re-orientation of her foreign policy begun yesterday when she severed diplomatic relations with Germany and Japan.

The issue is considered by the Argentinians to be of immense importance because they see themselves suffering as a South American power in relation particularly to Brazil, which as a full-fledged fighting ally of the United States has been receiving arms and equipment since 1941.

What Washington's reaction will be, however, probably will depend on the extent to which the Buenos Aires government has gone by then in cleaning up Axis spy nests, propaganda and revolutionary intrigue within her borders. It probably will depend also on the need Argentina can show for lend-lease in the interests of hemispheric defense and the Allied war effort.

The subject of lend-lease help for Argentina was last broached in August, two months after the revolutionary regime of President General Pedro Ramirez seized power. Secretary of State Hull hotly rejected the request at that time.

Hull yesterday at his news conference expressed gratification over the diplomatic break, but he said pointedly "it must be assumed" Argentina would adopt "other measures" on which all American nations have agreed for the security of the continent.

This "assumption" by the secretary apparently reflected this government's basic view that what Argentina thus far has done is praiseworthy but is only the first step if she desires to get on terms of sound friendship.

"Bojangles" Takes Dancer - Bride In Columbus Wedding

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Jan. 27.—Bill ("Bojangles") Robinson, the famed 66-year-old Negro dancer, tapped the time away at the foot of a stairway today until his 23-year-old bride descended, and then led her into the parlor of a private home where they were married—and Bojangles slipped the ring on the wrong hand.

His bride was Elaine Plaines of Brooklyn, a dancer known on the boards as Sue Dash.

Bojangles, who said he wasn't nearly so nervous as when the Cards beat the Yanks in the world series two years ago, took Miss Plaines' right hand at the end of the ceremony and slipped on the ring. That matter was corrected later.

It was the tap dancer's second marriage. Miss Plaines' first. They are appearing here in a stage production.

The marriage was performed in the home of Dr. Lloyd L. Jones by the Rev. Hubert N. Robinson of St. Paul's A. M. E. church. Mayor James A. Rhodes and Band Leader Hal McIntyre were among the guests.

First Army Nurses In Burma Jungles Are Welcome Sight

(By Associated Press)

IN THE NORTHERN BURMA JUNGLE, Jan. 20.—(Delayed)—Something new but definitely nice has been added to the northern Burma jungle.

It's a bevy of Army nurses—the first in Burma. Members of the "Foreign Legion" field hospital, they arrived wearing unflattering fatigue uniforms, but they looked mighty good to Americans, some of whom hadn't seen a white woman in six months.

The honor of being the first two American nurses in Burma went to Lieut. Ruth Walters, Columbus, Ohio, chief nurse, and Second Lieut. Mary Riney, Louisville, Ky. They arrived a few days ago to arrange accommodations and then returned to lead 12 others back into this jungle.

Other nurses included Second Lieut. Sarah Clark, Mansfield, Ohio; and Florence Parrish, Steubenville, Ohio.

The nurses are administering to Chinese forces clearing the Huk-ung valley so the Leg road can be driven through to connect with the old Burma road.

The "Foreign Legion" field hospital derived its nickname from the fact so many of its members were born outside the United States.

MAYOR SUIT LOSES IN SUPREME COURT

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Jan. 27.—The Ohio supreme court yesterday denied Republican Arthur H. Williams' right to contest the election of Ralph W. O'Neill, Democrat, as mayor of Youngstown.

The Mahoning county common pleas court had dismissed Williams' petition on the ground he had not signed the petition. O'Neill had alleged irregularities in the balloting.

The supreme court's majority opinion, in a four to three decision, held that in an election contest action the petition has to be signed either by 25 voters or by the defeated candidate. The petition had been signed by neither.

Judges Roy H. Williams of Sandusky, William L. Hart of Alliance and Charles Bell of Cincinnati, all Republicans, dissented and held Williams should be allowed to contest the election.

Trumbull county courts were upheld in a ruling that the city of Youngstown had forfeited its rights to 114 acres of land in Mahoning and Trumbull counties left it by the late Henry H. Stambaugh.

The tract, a bequest for park and playground purposes, was willed the city on condition the municipality extend a highway through it. Instead, the city converted the land into a golf course and did not build the highway.

Inasmuch as the city had failed to carry out terms under which it accepted the land, the courts held the property reverted to the

Salem And Youngstown Rayen Will Clash Here Tomorrow

TEAMS ARE RATED EVENLY FOR GAME ON LOCAL FLOOR

Season's Records of Both Schools Show Four Wins and Five Losses

With both entries in tomorrow's cage scrap at the High school gym boasting four wins and five losses and almost identical scoring powers, the outcome looks like a toss-up between Coach Herb Brown's Salem Quakers and Joe Horn's visiting Youngstown Rayen crew.

It will be the first "test case" for Brown's newly organized starting lineup, now minus its second high scorer, and will give local fans a good indication of what to expect in the all-important Alliance and East Liverpool games facing Salem next week.

Brown, after a week's work with his replacements, is almost settled on his starting lineup, turning Ray Wise's old assignment over to Francis Lannoy, who has shown a marked improvement offensively this week and looks to the Salem coach like the other scoring threat on the Quaker squad.

In the other back court post will be either aggressive Jimmie Appedisan or lanky Bill Stoudt, who has shown potentialities as a long shot artist this year. In the center job will be Walter Brian, to perform his difficult task of maintaining the brunt of Quaker offensive power. Frank Enriken, also improved this week, will be in at one forward and will be assisted in the other corner by Norman Smith.

Shaves improvement
On Lanny's shoulders rests a heavy responsibility—that of holding up Quaker scoring and managing the ball handling in the back court. The deliberate Junior has been exhibiting marked improvement this week in practice and is counted on by Brown to garner a goodly share of the Salem total. Jimmie Appedisan always aggressive in defense work, is perking up on offense also, and may count more frequently from the floor than he has in play this year.

A comparison of the two squads makes the game stack up to be one of the most even the Quakers have engaged in this year. Both teams have won four games and lost five, and both have been engaged in a losing streak for the past several games. Salem will have the edge around the backboards as Rayen hasn't a single man on their varsity, the tallest being about 5-10.

Rayen Starters
Joe Horn's starters will probably be the same as used in his last three games. At forwards will be Tony Tabachino, the tallest Rayenite, and his corner-mate, Jim Kennedy, who is around the five feet eight inch mark. At center, and pitted against Walt Brian, will be the high scorer for the squad, Clifford "Clipp" Shipp, who tallied some 20 points in the last encounter. Shipp will be considerably shorter than the rangy Brian, but has functioned well at the center assignment all year against taller opponents. At guards Horn will start Armando Rossi, second best point-getter, and Moses "Mo" Garcia, who is just 5' 7".

The Quaker average per game is slightly better than Rayen's, but defensively the Youngstowners have held their opponents to a lower average than Brown's crew. Salem averages around 35 points-per-game and Rayen hits about 31 points in each fracas. Defensively, Salem has allowed its opposition an average of 36 points while Rayen's foes have 32 points-per-game.

In spite of the Quakers revised lineup, they are rated equal to Horn's outfit, and all indications are that the lead will bobble around considerably before the final horn closes the contest.

Rayen defeated Salem last year on the Youngstown court in a close battle but an even closer contest is expected Friday.

The varsity contest will be preceded by a preliminary tussle between Rayen and Salem reserve squads, slated to begin at 7:30. Rayen's reserves tower over the varsity outfit by several inches and should gain the height advantage on the Quakers.

Officials for the varsity fray will be Ray Sweeney and Bruce Hamm and the game is scheduled to start at 8:45.

DENISON DEFEATS NORTHERN TO KEEP CONFERENCE LEAD

Bowling Green Keeps Its Slate Clean By Spanking Wesleyan, 66-26

(By Associated Press)
Denison university remained on top of the Ohio conference basketball standings last night by walloping Ohio Northern 92 to 47, and Bowling Green university kept its record in state competition unmarred by trouncing Ohio Wesleyan 66-26.

In chalking up its 11th victory in 13 starts, Denison sprang into an early lead and led at the half-way mark 45-22. Coach Gerald Armstrong used 12 men.

Despite the overwhelming score, Robertson, Ohio Northern guard was high-point with 19.

At Bowling Green, Don Otten paced the Bee-Gees to their 15th victory in 16 starts by scoring 18 points. The winners were out in front 23-13 at half time.

Bowling Green's athletic department announced it would play a double-header Saturday night at Ada, meeting both Bluffton and Ohio Northern.

The Bee-Gees, beaten only by Great Lakes Naval Training station at Great Lakes, will use large-ly second strong players.

Both Bluffton and Ohio Northern are composed of civilian players, and both schools are coached by B. A. Barekey—a wartime measure so that both institutions could continue the cage sport this winter.

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Guessing game... Branch Rickey, cheerfully admitting that he sometimes talks too much, hints that in the next few days the Dodgers may lose a man "more vital to Brooklyn than Slaty Marion was to the Cardinals."

The only Dodger we could put in that classification would be Mickey Owen, but the Brahmin of Borough hall may have other ideas about values... Babe Ruth has signed up as a War bond salesman—and no doubt he'll help our boys make a home run.

GERMANS FAIL

cano lies inland about 30 miles due west of Cassino.

Fighters maintained patrols throughout the day. Three enemy aircraft were destroyed. Two Allied planes are missing.

Although Cassino itself appeared largely abandoned by the Nazi troops, their positions in the surrounding hills gave them a clear sweep of its streets and bomb-jumbled houses.

Allied naval units continued to exert a powerful control over coastal roads by which Germans could shift their fighting front from the Cassino area to the northern beachhead, and again ploughed up sections near Fomia Tuesday night with their plunging shells.

Littoria is 13 miles due east of Nettuno, four and a half miles from the coast, and four miles from the Apian way.

The clash with German armor southwest of there may have indicated the British or Americans had pushed forward across the Mussolini canal.

The Americans on the old Fifth army front were making steady if painful progress in an encircling maneuver against Cassino.

Capt. Jimmy Stewart
Turns Down Chance
To Become a Major

(By Associated Press)

A U. S. LIBERATOR BOMBER BASE, ENGLAND, Jan. 27.—Capt. Jimmy Stewart, formerly of Hollywood and now leader of a Liberator bomber squadron, is the talk of his airmates at this base because he started a superior officer by turning down a promotion to major.

Friends of the actor, who won his wings the hard way, quoted him as explaining his refusal by saying he didn't want to be raised to a higher rank "until my junior officers get promoted from lieutenant."

The lanky star of "Mr. Smith Goes To Washington" remained mum about the incident because, like Capt. Clark Gable, he has been assiduously avoiding the limelight since he reluctantly granted a press conference on his arrival two months ago.

Stewart has piloted his bomber on three raids—as a squadron commander he flies only occasionally—and fellow fliers say he did a "swell job."

On the ground he puts in long hours at executive work.

Friends say Stewart has avoided social gatherings, except for occasional appearances at the officer's club where he usually is the life of the party and the group's favorite pianist.

The best testimonial to his career in the Army was given a few days ago when some visiting G. I.'s from another Liberator base made some remarks about his rapid rise in rank within hearing of Stewart's crew.

The remarks participated a verbal blast from Stewart's men that left no doubt around the Eighth Air Force that there's nothing Hollywoodish about the new story, "Mr. Smith Goes To Berlin."

ALLIES SMASH

600 tons. Marine pilots accounted for four ships in adjoining Keravia bay and set a tanker afire.

In contrast with recent statements by Allied pilots that the Japanese still had their "first team" at Rabaul, Associated Press War Correspondent Vern Haugland quoted fliers returning from the attack Monday as saying "the Jap pilots today were flying like a bunch of high school kids."

American invasion forces at Arawe on the southwest coast of New Britain, found no sign of the Japanese when patrols extended far beyond the beach perimeter.

Fighter planes kept up strafing attacks on enemy soldiers trapped between American and Australian troops southeast of Japanese-held Madang in northern New Guinea.

Both bombers and fighters pounded Japanese positions in the New Guinea coastal sector hinged to Madang and Wewak, farther north.

Heavy Ohio Fruit Crop
Expected by Orchardists

CLEVELAND, Jan. 27.—Ohio orchardists can expect heavy fruit crops if spring weather is normal, says Frank K. Beach, state horticultural society secretary.

Growers from all sections of the state report trees bearing heavy buds, he told the society, reporting a container salvage campaign was planned to meet the expected need. W. F. Aampf of Athens was elected secretary as the organization opened a two-day meeting. C. W. Ellenwood of Wooster was named treasurer.

No New Whiskies

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—A War Production board announcement today made it official there will be no distilling of new whisky in the United States in 1944.

War needs will continue to require the full facilities of the distillers, WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson said.

that this dispute will be settled by Russia and Poland themselves. This hope must persist Moscow's rejection—in cordial terms—of America's offer to employ its good offices in restoring diplomatic relations between Poland and Russia. Our offer, by the way, was not concerned with mediation of the territorial dispute.

But supposing there is no agreement between the Russians and the Poles, and the Muscovites just go ahead and reoccupy the territory in dispute? Who does what to make Russia give up this land?

The chief Allies already have agreed that successful prosecution of the war, and the maintenance of peace, depend on continued amicable cooperation among the big Three—Russia, America and Britain. It's generally conceded among statesmen and other observers that a rupture of relations among the trio would mean another world war.

This being so it would seem absurd to think that either the United States or Britain would go to the extreme of causing a break with Russia over a territorial change which already was a fait accompli before America came into the war. This doesn't mean, however, that the Atlantic charter declaration regarding annexations has been eased out. Mr. Eden has reaffirmed it, and it must remain one of the cardinal tenets of the United Nations.
